The Progress of the West.

Winipeg, Manitoba, May 9th.—Chas. F. Roland, Industrial Commissioner of this city, has issued a comprehensive statement concerning the progress of the West, in which he says:

"The migration movement into Western Canada has advanced very rapidly in the past few years. In 1907, 262,419 persons came in from all sources. The next year 146,968 came, in 1909, 28,794, in 1910, 317,094, and in 1911 the figures show 339,120 settlers, all of whom have come with the avowed intention of taking up their permanent residence with us.

"The wealth of Western Canada's partially developed natural resources is yet untold. With only 10 per cent of the vast stretches of fertile land under crop, with lumber and mineral resources merely surface touched, with millions of acres of cheap land, Western Canada is bound to have first place among the countries of the world as a place in which people may come and settle and make for themselves a home and business equal to their ability, capacity and capital investment.

POOL HALL BURNS DOWN

A fire that might have caused the destruction of the entire business section of Raymond occurred last Friday night when the pool hall caught fire and was burned to the ground. Nothing was saved except a few boxes of matches and a piece of game chalk, which were discovered after the fire was out. Had it not been for the promptness and cool-headedness of those first seeing the fire, and the fact that there was no alarm, the Raymond Mercantile Co.'s, important building would have caught fire—as it was, the building was severely scorched. The chemical used by the fire department would not work, so the brigade was forced to carry water from the Raymond Mercantile Co.'s, store, and by persistent effort they prevented any further spread of the fire.

If you have seen and enjoyed "The Barrier" sometime ago, do not fail to see "The White Squaw." This play has been called the sister play to the former. If you did not see "The Barrier," do not fail to go and see "The White Squaw." You can afford to miss one artistic treat, but you cannot afford to do so twice.

Mr. Joshua Holman, of Stirling, spent Monday at Raymond.

THE WHITE SQUAW COMING.

Owing to an open date, manager King has been able to secure for next Saturday, the appearance in the local Opera House, of what is positively the best travelling organization now touring the Canadian West.

"The White Squaw," a comedy drama in four acts, is from the pen of one of the younger American playwrights. The following is what the Kansas City Journal has to say of this excellent production:

A play with a unusual ending and with no villain is "The White Squaw," which opened a week's engagement at the Grand yesterday afternoon. Set in a quiet and unusual surroundings, the play tells the story of the Indian backwoods years ago when the trapper and the fur trader roamed the forest. Love and sacrifice is the theme on which it is built.

"The heroine of the play is a beautiful white girl, Neenah. When a child she was taken by her father into the forest, where the latter meets death. The baby is found by an Indian, who takes her to his wigwam and brings her up as his own child, and in the belief that she is of his race. The girl is just budding into womanhood when the action of the play begins. There are four scenes in the play, three of them in the Indian's wigwam, and the fourth in a tepee.

Even in the seclusion of the backwoods the girl finds opportunity for heart entanglements, being loved by a French-Canadian trapper and loving an Englishman, a lawyer for a fair company. For the Frenchman the girl has only friendship. For the Englishman she suffers in secret heart longing, receiving nothing but friendship in return. The fair lawyer loves another girl, who later turns out to be the supposedly Indian girl's sister.

Through an unfortunate early marriage to a brother of the French-Canadian, this girl's secret heart aches with an unrequited love for the Englishman, who tells many untruths which finally result in a break between them, which her own heart aches with an unrequited love for the Englishman.

Neenah's foster father, Micahe, his most beloved of his race, is particularly fond of his white daughter, and in the end, after a long and happy journey through their wedding day, she is married to the Englishman whom she loves. A walk in the body of the latter by the don is given to Neenah. It proves conclusively the truth of the Indian's words. With a rare smile of sacrifice, the French-Canadian would bring back the boy, who has just started for the city, but here

Neenah brings in the unusual meaning of the play. She will not let the French-Canadian go, saying that she prefers to remain in the forest with the Indian, her love and sorrow, and the French-Canadian.

The play was well received yesterday afternoon. It is clean and has a beautiful tone. The acting, although not large, is capable. There will be Thursday and Saturday matinees.

All Nations will be Represented

The interest of all nations in the forthcoming Seventh International Dry-Farming Congress, at Lethbridge, Alberta, October 2nd to 6th, grows apace with the announcement by the Dominion Government of Canada's official invitation for each nation to participate. The cordial cooperation of the Canadian officials and the Honorable Ambassador of Great Britain to Washington has been particularly of immense importance as to the representation for the Congress.

It is expected that fully 500 delegates of foreign agriculturists and diplomats will attend. There is a likelihood that every South American Republic will be represented by two men, one official delegate, while several will send delegates to the Congress at Vancouver.

Michigan and New York are becoming deeply interested in the dry-farming movement, and are certain to send delegates to the first formal session to be held later in the fall term, while Dr. Henry H. Bailey, the famous agricultural officer, now a Dean of Agriculture at Cornell University, has accepted an invitation to participate. Minnesota and Illinois are also to be represented by both delegations and officials, and the cooperation of Governors Davenport and Fairbank has been followed by the immigration and agricultural officials, and the large, low-slung, dry-farmed province.

The Executive Secretary, Mr. John T. Bennett, of a field trip through the world, western states, and everywhere in passing will propose a large attendance of delegates and for the first time Dr. Daniel Morgan, of the Board of Geographical Names, will directly lead the Northwestern and Pacific Coast states in their mission, and Dr. Duncan Macdonald, Minister of Agriculture of Alberta, who has been invited by the Board of Control to make a tour of the western states and provinces of Canada to assist local officials in preparation.

A quiet wedding took place at the home of Dr. L. H. Amos on Thursday evening, when Mr. Alvin Amos and Miss Maud Brewerton were united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. Perry, Presbyterian Minister, of Lethbridge. The bride, Miss Maud Brewerton, was escorted by the bride's brother, Mr. Roy Brewerton, through their wedding day.

Miss Maud Brewerton was taken to Lethbridge in the country C.P.R. car on Wednesday afternoon and is operated upon for appendicitis.

TOWN COUNCIL MEETING.

The regular meeting of the town council was held Thursday, May 2nd, in the council chamber with all the members present, except Councilors Hicks and Killion.

The minutes of the meeting of the finance committee at which Councilor Albin Amos, Supervisor Harris and Assessor Wilder were appointed to the assessment committee, were read and approved.

Many communications were received by the board and were considered. One from J. G. Alfred, asking permission to fence the sidewalk south and west of the railroad, was granted. The council decided that should be used for all the streets except the top, which was to be for the use of the town, and that turnpike gates be put at either end.

V. E. Ying asked permission to construct an addition, which was to be a wooden structure to be used as a bedroom in connection with the building he occupies on Broadway. As this location is within the fire limit, the council decided that should be refused the request. Mr. Ying, as an alternative, asked permission to erect a tent. No objection, of course, could be made to this.

The request of the faculty and students of the Knight Academy for a sidewalk from Broadway to the C.P.R. station was granted. It was shown that the foot traffic on this street to the Academy was very great and that considerable inconvenience was experienced by the students in wet weather in getting to and from school.

The question of laying permanent walks on Broadway from the C.P.R. station to the south end of the street was discussed and discussed. The works and property committee were instructed to investigate the matter. The works committee will also sign the petition for a cement sidewalk from First Street South to the station, and if this committee should be successful in securing these sidewalks, the board will now on Broadway will be used in constructing sidewalks asked for by the faculty and students of the Academy.

C. W. Giff and Sam wrote, explaining that the proposed reduction in water rates for government had escaped their notice, and they wished to settle to June 1st, and another for the discount. The council did not see any way clear to grant the request.

Supervisor T. W. Harris gave a detailed report of his work. Among the things done this month was the repairing of the engine at the spring, restoring and repairing street lights and installing new ones, repairing the windmill at the well, smoothing the road on Broadway from the canal to the station, and doing work on the ditch at the station, and doing in the mud hole on the road west of town.

Dr. J. S. Wray, medical health officer, reported favorably on the health of the town. He advised that the town premises be cleaned up, and reported that the veterinarian had decided on the month of May for his work.

Jose Giff was present and protested against the superior filling in a hole on Broadway, charging the work to his account.

On a further discussion of the advisability of paving Broadway it was suggested that several companies be contacted with respect to the cost of the work, and the council was instructed to communicate with them.

Miss Stella Keeler is under the care of Dr. Wray at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Lamb with a very badly blood-poisoned foot caused from using formula on a corn.

Raymond, after all, is home. Let us make it home-like.

And still there are several (many) unoccupied houses in Raymond. Gentlemen, brush up a bit.

Raymond must have better sidewalk accommodations. A good sidewalk is not a luxury, it is a NECESSITY.

Publish it everywhere, that Raymond is really Alberta's Home Town. Let us all do our best to merit the name.

Several thousand trees, of the 50,000 mark set by The Leader, have been planted. What a splendid improvement, sure!

Raymond can be made a most desirable resident town. Let us make it so. Keep in mind, please, that we live in Alberta's Home Town.

Farmers, plant a few acres of beets. The sugar factory must be supported. It would be a calamity to see the factory close on account of failure to support it.

The leaven of civic improvement is working. The whole lump must be leavened. Let each part carry its share of the work. All together for a more beautiful Raymond.

Did you see the giant whose footprints appeared on Broadway last week? Really, we are reliably informed that the unfortunate fellow stubbed his toe on that "stub-toe" nuisance between the hotel and the post office.

The Leader commends the mayor and town council for the steps taken in getting better sidewalk accommodations for Raymond. We have been hammering away at this matter for a long time. Let the good work go on.

The present town administration has, at least in good intention, answered the requirements of the people. Let it be remembered, however, that improvements are still in the intentional stage. All together in support of the Mayor and council in carrying out these splendid intentions.

A number of farmers, following the suggestion of the Leader, have sold one or more of their unused tracts of land, and have paid off the mortgage. They inform the writer that the requirements are now FREE men. Mr. Farmer, do thou likewise. You will be happier, and live longer and better. Why not do it?

It was a good thing that no act of criminality went on last week when the Marshall was assisting the Mayor with his threshing.

Many farmers every year lose a portion of the value of their crops because they have not force enough to sow them in season. They sow wheat till too late a date; the same with oats; the same with flax; and the same with potatoes.

A traveller remarked the other day that the coaches now used on the Lethbridge-Cardston line were used in Ontario in 1905. We do not doubt this statement in the least, nor would we have doubted it if he had said 50 years ago.

When, O when will the City Fathers install the fire hydrants that are lying in the rear of the Mercantile building? If there had been any wind at all on Friday night when the pool hall went up in flames, there would have been only a few remnants to mark the business part of Raymond. And why? Simply because we have no fire protection. City Fathers, for the sake of the citizens, put those fire hydrants where they can be used when needed.

How warm and cheering the green of the evergreens looks during the cold, snowy days. It seems almost like summer to go among them when the sun shines, and particularly when they are thick enough to break off the wind and, as is so often the case, a few birds still remaining in the north are flitting among them. The southern home may plant them or not, but no northern farm home can afford to be without at least a few of them to break the bareness of the long leafless, snowy season. Let us resolve irrevocably that this summer we will surely start a few evergreens.—Dakota Farmer.

 Est. 1837.

On Monday the train from Lethbridge was so crowded that several travellers' trunks and a number of other pieces of baggage were left at Stirling, and the passengers were crowded into the two little cars like sardines. The time is ripe for an improvement in the service between Lethbridge and Cardston, and if the railway officials do not do something very soon, the Boards of Trade of the towns along the line should endeavor to get a better service.

Let's go to the Alta this evening.

Anything worth doing is worth doing well. The man who sees no money in the hen on the farm, is the man who considers her only as a scavenger, a necessary evil, good enough to turn the waste she finds into eggs and flesh for the table, but too insignificant for him to meddle with. He's the man, too, who never keeps accounts, who may wonder how his wife manages to keep the table supplied, but who never takes time to think the matter out.—W. B.
